$7,850 SUBSCRIBED TO VICTORY LOAN; OUR QUOTA WAS $15,000

$7,850 was the sum subscribed by the Chauvin District for the Victory Loan 1919. The quota for the district was $15,000.

NORTHERN ALBERTA'S RECORD

We were asked to secure subscriptions to the 1919 Victory loan as follows: City, $3,000,000; country, $2,000,000.

G.W.V.A. NOTES

We cannot let last week's events slip away without a word of sincere thanks to all those who worked so hard and tirelessly. We could enlarge without end but those who took part know and we hope, understand how much we are indebted to them.

The Womens Institute are to be congratulated on the splendid supper which was so heartily enjoyed by everyone who had the privilege of eating at their table. We have also to thank Mr. J. A. Robinson for his welcome can of ice cream, and Nachtergale who kindly sent us a couple of boxes of apples.

Again we refer to the significance of Armistice Day.

HALLOWED MOMENTS

Only two minutes snatched from the busy round of mundane affairs, a few seconds culled from the many that pass unnoticed in the mad rush to attain the unattainable. The traffic halted, the whirl of machinery was hushed, hammer and pen were laid aside, and the solemn silence caused some people to look sheepishly, with conscience queries, "What is this to me?"

Here and there erect figures stiffly "at attention," mindful of naught save only the link of vivid memory that binds them forever to those gallant souls who rest beneath an alien sod.

How must those whistles have sounded to the womanhood of Canada, who, so heroically gave their all that Right might triumph over Might! Only a few brief moments but what memories they recall, of the sacrifices made by men and women of our race during the five most critical years in the world's history.

To us, of the Army, largely pledged to no particular church or creed, those moments we would fain believe, brought us into closer touch with the Almighty than we would openly admit; and though the dogmas of the churches interest us not, we do know in our inmost souls that we are yet in touch with those who sleep the long sleep across the washes of the Atlantic.

What more fitting tribute could be paid to the memory of those splendid men? No blare of music, no hysterical waving of flags; a simple, silent token of deathless memory, of comrades for comrades; of that love "which passeth all understanding"—a fitting and ever verdant tribute to The Glorious Dead.

The conception is worthy of our King, and this brief ceremony of the spirit must, above all, bind still more firmly together that splendid structure of all the ages.

—The British Empire.

We are glad to announce that our local is growing daily. We would like all returned men to come and see us and if they do not care to join we would still like to have a talk with them.

Any returned men who need assistance or advice are heartily welcome to come and make inquiries.

We are all looking forward with a ment which is being provided by the Chauvin Agricultural Society. The names of the patrons itself assures us an evening full of fun and good cheer and we hope that the Troop will turn out as well as the farmers and others did to our show.

In another column will be found particulars of the organization called the Ladies' auxiliary Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada.

We actually secured $6,177,500, of which the city contributed $4,023,000 and the country $2,154,500.

In the 1919 campaign the total subscriptions amounted to $4,982,350, the city raising $2,626,150, and the country $2,356,200.

In Division "G" $475,250 is this year's record as compared with $590,800 last year.

Every Province goes over its objective in the Victory Loan drive, totalling $673,199,790.

"Every Province in Canada has gone over its objective," stated Sir Henry Drayton at a Toronto meeting, amidst great enthusiasm.

There were great victory loan workers everywhere in Canada," he said "In the west they have their own troubles. They have an unusually early winter, roads practically impassable and much grain unthreshed, yet they have done splendidly."

Sir Henry congratulated the victory loan workers of the whole dominion "This is, after all," he said, "the final making good of Canada's pledges. This is indeed the final chapter of our war effort, and it is in keeping with the rest—perhaps the greatest chapters written in history."

talked about Canada's big debt, but the debt was nothing compared with what had been done. The people need have no fear of Canada's future, he said, and there was no occasion for pessimism.

Chauvin School Trustees Meeting

Regular meeting of the Board at the office of the Secretary at 8 o'clock p.m. November 15th 1919.

Present: Messrs Code, Folkins and Roy; Mr. Sim by request.

Minutes

Minutes of last regular meeting were read; and on motion of Dr. Folkins were adopted as read. Carried.

Accounts

The following accounts were presented:—Christies, $26.85; Freight $2.59; Moyer Co. $63.50; Laplante, $29.40; Debentures, $201.60; Johnson, $3.25; Western Municipal News, $5.97; Allan & Co., $55.35; Herbert, $18.00; Christies, $23.00; L. E. Roy moved that same be paid. Carried.

Mr. Sim brought forward the matter of swings and poles for basket ball games; and this matter was left over until the spring.

Public Health Nurse

Letter was read from Inspector Fowler, asking the board to co-operate in the employment of a nurse, who would examine all school children, and children expecting soon to attend school; for the purpose of detecting defects in eyes, ear, nose, throat, etc. This was a new departure favoured by the Department, and the Public Health Authorities were doing what they could to foster such an institution. The cost would be about $20.00 per school; and transportation from this school to any rural school coming next in turn for a visit. Mr. Roy moved that Secretary be instructed to fill in the form of contract required for one year for the engagement of the services of a nurse. Carried.

School Grant

The school grant was read for term ending June 30th 1918, $598.60, and filed.

Arrangements For Next Term

After a full discussion, Dr. Folkins moved and Mr. Code seconded, that the services of three teachers be retained for next term. Carried. Dr. Folkins moved that Secretary interview Miss McKinnon, and ascertain if she was willing to continue in the service of the Board for another year. Carried.

Chairman instructed Mr. Sim to order what he considered necessary in the way of equipment for physics and chemistry for the next term.

Arrears

Matter of arrears was then discussed and Secretary was instructed to advertise in the Chronicle, and send out a special notice to all persons who had not paid their taxes; stating that (Continued on column 3)

Curling Notes

The ice has been ready for a week, and several games have already been played, but owing to the heavy thaw Sunday was not in shape to play on Monday, it is not however, expected that this condition will last long.

The following rinks were drawn up Monday night to start the ball rolling, or rather the rocks curling.

There may be some included in the list who have decided not to enjoy this sport, it will be conferring a favor if you will notify the Secretary, if in this class so that your place may be filled. There may be some who intend curling who have not been included, if these parties will pay their 1919-20 dues another rink will be made up.

J. A. Code rink—G. W. Allan, A. E. Foxwell, F. Perch.

F. W. Anderson rink—O. Hawthorn Eddy Lambert, C. G. Ferran.

C. C. McKechnie rink—Wm. Cahill, R. C. Fitzpatrick, R. H. Beatty.

Jeff Swan rink—W. Johnson, E. Keatley, F. W. Fuller,

D. W. Parsons, rink—J. Monkman, F. Fahner, L. E. Roy.

H. N. Freeman rink—A. E. Keith, L. Levasseur, L. H. Leach.

It is not expected these rinks will last for more than two weeks curling when the interest of all members will be such that they will attend a meeting to draw up new rinks for the competitions.

Chauvin District U.F.A. Call Mtg. Saturday, Nov. 29

The Chauvin District U.F.A. are calling a meeting on Saturday afternoon, November 29th.

(Continued on Column 2) after the 15th day of December, distraints would be issued for recovery of same.

Chairman reported that he had rented the Atkins building on Main Street for the high school to the end of the term at $18 per month; and that he had arranged for the increase of the salary of the janitor to $23 per month to the end of the term to cover the extra work. Approved.

Dr. Folkins moved that the meeting adjourn. Carried.

A Victrola would make a dandy Christmas present. They are sold by The Chauvin Pharmacy

TWO HOMELESS FAMILIES IN OUR MIDST: TWO FIRES: NO LOSS OF LIFE FORTUNATELY

The past week has witnessed two disasters by fire in our district. In both cases the homes have been entirely destroyed, though fortunately no loss of life or injury has been incurred. Last Wednesday afternoon our old friend Mr. J. Julien, (well-known for his clever carving) noticed fire in the ceiling. It was not possible for Mr. Julien and his wife to overcome the outbreak and within twenty minutes the whole structure was smoking hot ashes. The aged couple are now the guests of Omet Sr. Pierre.

The following day the home of Mr. Olaf Dorland was destroyed. Mr. Dorland was away from home threshing. Mrs. Dorland and two of the children were around the stable and yard doing the chores, when they observed the house to be on fire. The two younger children were gotten out in safety, but everything else was lost. Neighbours came over as quickly as possible, but the fire had the greater speed. Mrs. Dorland and children are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Dorland, Sr. The neighbours are organizing some relief for the sufferers, but the details of their scheme is not available before going to press.

A card party will be held in aid of Sacred Heart Hall in aid of Mr. and Mrs. Julien, who suffered the loss of their home through fire, Wednesday November 12th. Everybody is asked to buy a ticket.

The card party will be held Tuesday, November 25th, in the Sacred Heart Hall, Chauvin. Admission 50 cents per couple.

Personal Christmas Greeting Cards at from $2.00 per dozen. Printed the same day as ordered—Chronicle office

WINTER NOTES

Mr. A. C. Hinch's sale took place on Friday November 7th at Winter. Mr. Turnbull was the auctioneer. Everything was sold at a good price but the horses which there seemed no sale for.

Mrs. A. C. Hinch and family are going to Victoria, B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller are leaving for Victoria, B.C. in a few days.

The threshing is not all done in this district yet.

In looking over the last issue of the Chauvin Chronicle we find the Editor made some mistakes, but cheer up he will do better next time.

J. Rowland and A. Jones have taken their cattle home from the reserve pasture.

Mrs. A. McDermit has been away for some time visiting relatives at Briderick.

Mr. E. Graham went out to his homestead Saturday night, returning to his station on Sunday.

Isn't it grand to be able to welcome dear old winter back again, with its snow and ice. Get your skates out, boys!

A nice little idea for Christmas and one that is practiced a great deal in the cities is to have mother or father get their eyes tested and on Christmas morning present them with a beautiful new pair of glasses, with which to do their reading and close work.

BUTZE U.F.A.

A meeting of the Butze U.F.A. will be held on Saturday, November 22nd at H. Besterds.

Lealholme U.F.A. & U.F.W.A. Meeting

The joint meeting of the U.F.A. and the U.F.W.A. last Thursday evening was very well attended, 18 members and friends. Business of interest to both organizations being discussed.

A social evening will be held at prosperity school house on Thursday November 27th at 8 p.m., to which we invite all the members and wives of the U.F.A. also all the young people in the district.

CHAUVIN AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY HAS RECORD OF EIGHT YEARS STEADY PROGRESS

Eight Years Ago

Eight years ago in this district the idea of forming an agricultural society was taking hold on the public mind.

The Chauvin Board of Trade (peace be to its remains) and the U. F. A. got together in a joint meeting which was held November 25th 1911 in the old took the preliminary steps towards organization. Another meeting was held on December 2nd 1911 at which it was reported that were 73 signatures for membership. An application to the Commissioners and request for the fixing of a date for the first annual meeting was made.

The First Annual Meeting

The first annual meeting was held in Roy's Hall, December 30th 1911. The membership was now eighty. The business of this meeting was the election of officers, the following being the first directorate:—

John Murray, President
A. E. Keith, Vice-President
Jas. Semple, 2nd Vice-President
S. G. Lewis, Secretary-treasurer
C. Ryall, H. Strachan
A. S. Campbell, J. A. Carey
M. J. McCrea, A. Poirier
J. Duncan, being elected directors.

First Fair Ground Now Built Over

The first fair was held October 4th 1912, in the Massey-Harris building, and the grounds were where the present brick Telephone building now is stands standing. $260 was paid out for prizes at this fair. The first annual report being one well worth reading and being a credit to the new organization.

ganization.

Steadily year by year the band of agricultural enthusiasts have maintained the work, and each year has seen progress made, always a little better than last might justly be claimed for the Chauvin fair.

Its Members Won Highest Military Honors

Of the original charter members of the Chauvin Agricultural Society the following have served with the Overseas forces:—W. J. Sewell, Jeff Swan, L. Borregard and H. Strachan who brought immortal fame to the district by winning the Military Cross and the Victoria Cross.

In addition to those mentioned there are a number of those becoming members at later dates who also served with the Forces.

The Office Bearers

The following is a list of the presidents of the society and their years of office:—

John Murray, 1912.
A. W. Robinson, 1913
Jas Semple, 1914
C. Larson, 1915
C. W. Ryall, 1916
Geo. Leggett, 1917
Lt-Col. Wm Rodden, 1918-1919
The secretary-treasurers have been:
S. G. Lewis 1911-1912-1913
R. A. Cowan, 1914
H. Foreman, 1915-1916
L. D'Albertainson, 1917
P. H. Perry 1918-1919

Has Done Valuable Educational Work
In addition to a long string of increasingly successful fairs, with their increasing amounts of prize money, there has been educational work of no small value. The educative value of observations and exchanges of opinions at the fairs, coupled with the series of institute meetings held have been of great value in bringing the district to the forefront as a producer of good stock and of mixed farming.

The quiet consistent work of the Agricultural Society has been an ever present leaven working all the time for the betterment of the agricultural interests of the community from the practical and operative side.

Tangible Results Attained

In addition to this valuable work the Society has carried out with marked success some very creditable enterprises. The purchase of the agricultural grounds when land was obtainable at lower figures than now was a long-headed piece of work for which the first instigators deserve our thanks. Conveniently situated (and within easy access of town, country and railroad and in a good position the present agricultural grounds are a credit to the community. After they had completed payment on the land, the Society erected an exhibition building and extension thereto, also show rings and other conveniences to facilitate the conduct of the annual fair. During the present year the Society have been able to get erected a fine booth. This is built in an octagonal shape and can serve equally well for an exhibition, a bandstand.

AN IRISHMANS LUCK
OUR SERIAL STORY

CHAPTER 35
The Beginning Of Tad's 'Lay-out'

Since no better way out of his difficulties offered, Mr. Jordan on the following morning wrote a brief note to Evelyn saying that if she would take the old mare and buckboard to school on the Friday that Tad should call for her in the afternoon and drive her down to town, since he found that he would not be able to come himself as arranged. This note, with twenty-five cents for his trouble, Tad took over early to the mailman, with many injunctions that it was to be handed personally to some member of the Dingle household. In the absence of any specific orders to the contrary Tad thought it best to return home and report the fulfilment of his errand, by which time it was too late for him to be in time for school, and his father was too preoccupied to dispute Tad's have the day off to prepare for the next day's trip—though, except to Tad, it was not very obvious that any preparation was necessary.

For himself, Mr. Jordan found the day drag heavily on his hands; he still had one of his Sunday Sermons to prepare, but after trying for an hour to concentrate his thoughts on some suitable topic for his discourse, he gave it up in despair and took himself to the hoeing of his potatoes for the rest of the morning, and in the afternoon he wandered off down the valley and through Cowan's bush—a favorite refuge when he wished to escape from other people's troubles or his own—and to-day he felt that he plenty of both. A meeting of the town school board, of which he was a member, brought him at last to bedtime, still feeling, as he told his wife, rather like a Guy Fawkes conspirator, waiting for the moment to apply his match to the gunpowder.

There was no need to call Tad on the Friday morning, for when his father came down for breakfast he found that Vixen had been fed an hour before and was already harnessed. Tad himself had put on his Sunday suit for the occasion and was superintending the putting up by his mother of a very plentiful lunch for himself, for it had been decided that when his father turned off the town-line to go to Mrs. Bigley's, that Tad should have a little picnic by himself till it was time for him to walk the mile or so to the school house for Evelyn—a first suggestion that he should call at one or other of the nearby settlers for dinner having been discarded as likely to expose him to awkward questions as to why he had come up to the settlement. Tad had no doubt as to his own ability in this own words 'to put one over' on any too curious inquirer, but his father objected to any strain being put on the boy's strict veracity—not being accustomed himself to the breadth of view of the school-boy maxim—'Ask me no questions, and I'll tell you no lies.'

It was still quite early when they started and Mr. Jordan drove himself till they had passed through the town and over the railway crossing, when he handed the reins to Tad with what the latter considered very unnecessary injunctions as to keeping them tight in the case of Vixen's shying. Usually when he found himself alone with his father Tad was prepared to do most of the talk and was satisfied with an occasional acquiescence in his views, or answer to his questions, but he found Tad this morning so entirely irresponsible that at last even he relapsed into silence and his own thoughts. Thanks to Vixen's liberty to set the rate of their travelling it was as leisurely as she thought would escape a jerk of the reins or a touch of the whip, she walked up all the hills with a decent appearance of making an effort and sidled down them as if afraid of her knees, with an occasional smart trot on the level to give an impression of willingness. However slowly she might go it was fast enough for her master, for the task before him only seemed the more unpleasant the nearer it came, and beyond his distaste for his own part same many misgivings as to the wisdom of allowing Tad to share his responsibilities. More than once he thought of going first to the school-house to see Evelyn before going to the Dingle—well, he would suggest the idea to Tad—they were within half a mile of where he was to turn off the town line and it must be settled one way or the other.

'I suppose, Tad, you wouldn't like me to go down to the school house now, before I go to Mrs. Bigley's; perhaps, you know, it would be—'

'Oh, No, Dad,' and if his father hesitated, Tad was quite decisive, 'Why, of course, that's my job.'

'Still it won't do for you to go blurring it out suddenly—it would be a great shock—'

'Of course, I sha'n't blurt it out, Dad—why, I've been figuring it out all the way up and got it down fine—I've got a regular lay-out for the whole time'

'That's all very well in your mind, my boy, but very often what you call a "regular lay-out" does not work when the time comes—and Miss Raye's mind may go swift to a conclusion before you get started—and I'm afraid of the consequences.'

'Oh, that's because you're used to what you call "breaking bad news" said Tad shrewdly, 'good news won't hurt. Of course, she may give a squeal or cry a bit, but she'll be so jolly glad Mr. Tom's alive that she'll soon get over it—and if there is anything of that sort it would be a lot nastier if we were both there than only one—and she won't mind a kid like me.'

'Well, perhaps you are right, Tad, and we will leave it so; in any case you had better tell Miss Raye before you hitch up to leave, the school-house, and there's Mrs. Brady's close by if you need any help of any kind—I wish it was all over.'

'Oh, we shall be all right, Dad, and you'll find us as gay as larks when you get home—and here's the turn in your road—Whoa, Vixen.'

Tad handed his father the reins and jumped out—'Wait a minute, Dad, while I get my lunch out at the back—that's all right—I'll mooch around for wild strawberries for a bit and then go and have my dinner down by the creek, and put in the time till the afternoon—good-bye.'

Dad's a good sort,' thought Tad, as he stood in the road and watched the buggy till it disappeared behind a bluff in a turn of the trail, 'he's a good sort, but he's the limit to fidget about a fellow's driving—I suppose he can't help it,' with which kindly allowances for his father's weakness Tad slung his school-bag containing his luncheon over his shoulder, and getting over the snake fence into the field adjoining the road, took his way to a little cluster of trees by the creek where he had before determined to have his dinner, and to think out finally his plans for his part of the show, which plans were not so devoid of difficulties as he had allowed his father to believe.

When Mr. Jordan had put on one side as irrelevant his half-expressed wonder as to what had become of Tom's letter to Evelyn, that was the end of it as far as he was concerned; he had enough evident difficulties to encounter without bringing in further ones by conjecture, but his remark had set Tad thinking—not so much as to what might have become of the letter as of what it might contain of interest to himself. He did not suppose that the letter itself mattered so very much to Evelyn now—Tom was alive and would be coming back himself soon—that would be the big thing for her—but since Mr. Tom had evidently told his father about that conversation down by Cowan's bush and about the ing, it might very well be—so Tad thought—that Tom's letter to Evelyn would have something to say of his promise to bring home some African curiosities for Tad; probably since Mr. Jack was dead and he had been wounded himself Mr. Tom would not care to bring back the five Boer shell, but the assegais would be all right or some Dutch coins, they would be very much easier to keep as the nucleus of his collection of coins than the occasional pieces of foreign silver, which found their way into the collection plate, as not properly negotiable at the candy store—and of course, there would be some stamps, if unused he would be ahead of any of the other fellows at school.

The longer he thought about it, the more Tad felt that the missing letter must be found—it was all very well for Dad to put it on one side and, of course, Dad would not go and ask old Dawson any good straight questions—Dad hated to be nasty, even to an old crank like that, but since Dad had not actually forbidden him there was no reason why he should not go to the office up north and do Surely Mr. Jordan's misgivings, as he left Tad standing by the side of the road, would have been largely increased if he had dreamt of what his son included in the vague term 'a regular lay-out for the whole show.'

A cursory examination of such wild strawberry plants as he found among the grass round the willow scrub satisfied Tad that the berries were too small and too unripe to be worth the trouble of picking, so though he judged by the sun that it was not yet noon, he decided to eat his lunch—that could be stretched out for an hour or so by reading the sporting sheet of the 'Free Press' in which it was wrapped, and then by following the roundabout course of the creek to where it passed at the back of old Dawson's buildings, he would get rid of the time till the men would be out in the fields again, and he would be nearly sure to find Mary Ann alone. Everything seemed to favor his plans, for when an hour or two later he came out of a bluff through which the creek ran and in sight of the post office, he had the satisfaction of seeing old Dawson and the hired man drive off in a wagon with a wide-spreading hay-rack on it, evidently on their way to the hay meadows, and so the cause was clear, Tad watched the wagon till it went out of sight down the trail, and then leaving the creek he struck across the open piece of prairie so as to reach the road between the town-line and the house. He endeavoured to make his approach in as casual a manner as possible, in case Mary Ann was looking from the windows and flower or two, or to look for suppositional strawberries by the wayside, but when he came to the open gateway, leading through the garden and potato patch to the house, there was nothing for it but to take his courage in both hands and go straight up to the door—his last thought as he knocked on it with his knuckles being—'Hang it all, she's only a woman and can't eat me, and anyway, thew don't keep a dog.'

A second knock, and a sharp voice in a hurry.'

It did not sound very promising, but as Ted opened the door and entered the voice changed to a much more friendly tone, 'Why, if it isn't the minister's son—come right in—I thought it was one of the neighbour's children—they come worrying after their mail and can't wait for a body to dry their hands—I'm just mixing the butter down—and how's your Pa and folks at home—I suppose you are staying up at the Dingle again for your holidays?'

'Oh, no, Miss Dawson not yet, tho I am to come up a little later when

'Oh, yes, thank you, I've just had my lunch down by the creek—'

'Well, a hearty boy like you can always do with a bit of cake or pie ex-ta, and I'll get you a drink of fresh buttermilk.'

'Oh, no, Miss Dawson, I have had a big lunch and I have a lot more left in my bag, I couldn't eat a bit more,' and Tad spoke with hasty decisiveness for this proffered kindly hospitality threatened to disorganize his comtemplated 'lay-out'

'Well, if you say so, I'll just go on with my mixing, and you can rest a while, and maybe have a piece before your Pa calls for you.'

'Oh, I'm not going back with Dad' Tad felt he must make a plunge. I'm going to call at the school for Miss Raye and to drive her down to town with Mr Tom Dennis's mare and buckboard that's been at the Dingle all winter and —'

'Well, that will be fine for you all —there isn't a nicer mannered nor to say kinder-hearted young lady in this country—and the folk's say the way she gets the children on in their learning is just wonderful. There's Mrs M'Tavish was telling me only last week as how her little Pete—and if there's an idle little rascalion in the district he's it—can just figure out like a—' Mary Ann's momentary mental search for a worthy comparison let Tad into the conversation with a rush.
'And I've got great news for her —just great' and in spite of Tad's effort to keep cool there must have been a thrill in his voice, fo Mary Ann sopped suddenly in her work and looked at him sharply.

'Why, what does the boy mean? If there's any bad news for her your Pa has never left a child like you to go and tell her—it would be a shame—so it would.'

'I did not say it was bad news, protested Tad, 'its good news—just splendid—there's been a letter come to Dad —you're not going to be sick, Miss Dawson?'—for at the word 'letter' white as her complexion allowed, and clutched at the side of the table.

'Oh, it's nothing—nothing at all—I have a dizzy spell at times these hot days, and when I stoop over my work—but your were saying "your Pa" ' and Mary Ann resumed her work, this time with her back to Tad
'Dad had a letter on Wednesday from the father of the Dennis boys, who used to live here and went to the war—it was Mr Jack that was killed and his brother is all well and alive.'

'Sure, now, and that is great news
—father, he'll be real pleased—he always liked that Tom one best—he was more friendly like when he came voice was fairly steady there was a dull tone in it. 'But, why need you go teling the schoolma'am. poor thing it will only worrit her and it's not likely as the young man will ever come back to this country.'

'Oh, yes, but he will—and I guess it won't be very long first, for he's got sick leave—you see he was wounded —and Dad thinks he may be back in six weeks from now.'

Poor Mary Ann felt as if the solid earth were tumbling under her feet, but she was not one to yield without a struggle. 'Well, if I were your Pa I wouldn't go for to tell Miss Raye as he was coming back before you know first—in course, I could not help hearing what the folks said about his beintook with the school ma'am last summer—folks know so much about their neighbours round hereabout—and I'm sure no one would be gladder nor I should for her to be happy—still, after you've gone and told everybody, if he didn't come back it would be terribly hard on her, folks would be saying—'

'Oh, you bet, he'll come back' the suggestion of faithfulness on Tom's part robbed Tad of his last compunc-tion. 'You bet your—your bottom dollar.' Tad blushed at his narrow escape from an indelicacy.

'He'll come like a shot when he gets the tip, and Dad is going to cable tonight if everything is alrht.'

'Your Pa seems to be very busy all at once,' said Mary Ann ecidly. 'I think a ministr l like him might be bet-te employeed looking after folks as is alive than trying to bring back them as the papers says is dead—and himself as good as preaching their funeral sermon—I call it less than decent'
'I don't care what you call decent' retorted Tad, with an angry flash at the effection on his father. I guess Mr Tom won't call it "decent" when he finds Miss Raye never got his letter, and he'll get as busy as Dad when he gets back.'

'What's the boy talking about with his "letter," and Mary Ann appealed scornfully with outspread open hands to some imaginary third person. 'If folks send letters from forrin, heathen lands, where everybody is a-fightin', they-ve only themselves to blame if if they geta lost, without casting their slurs on decent folks as never lost one in twenty years; you ask the postmaster in town and see what he'll tell you.'

'I did ask the postmaster in town,' Tad's temper was running away with his manners, and he remembers the letter quite well, for he says the letter was so fat that he weighed it twice over to see if it was overweight and then let it slide because if he put the overcharge on it your father as likely as not would not send the five cents down.'

The evidences of Mary Ann being 'sick' this time were so evident and alarming that Tad's anger evaporated as quickly as it had arisen, for she stumbled rather than walked to her father's old arm chair by the stove and threw her apron over her head.

oicd,glnk tjhai.

'It's a cruel boy as you are, to come telling a lonely woman as she's a thief,' she sobbed. 'My poor mother would turn in her grave if she knew as she'd worn herself into her grave keeping the floor clean after a lot of their feet, be it never so muddy outside, and her that careful she wouldn't mislay even an almanac for kidney pills if so be as it had a name on it—only to be called a thief after all—it's cruel hard, so it is.'

Tad had anticipated some possible emotion on the part of Evelyn in his lay-out, but of a distinctly pleasurable nature, though possibly embarrassing; this collapse of Mary Ann tions.

'But, Miss Dawson,' he stammered, nobody says you are a—nobody say for sure, that Miss Raye hadn't got the letter—but that I thought she hadn't, and I'd ask her so that I could get the stamp fo my collection —and the postmaster just said that perhaps it hadn't been called for or perhaps got in the wrong box—he did say that the post office people in the country were a kind of—a—amateurs you know, and noot regular like their clerks in town.'

and she was doing some rather hard, apron.'

'Well, perhaps you didn't mean to speak so hard—and you a minister's son—and indeed your Pa did call up after moter's funeral and was as kind as could be, and said a prayer just as if we had been his own folks.'

'Oh, I'm sure Dad never thought a thing about it,' said Tad, much relieved to get on easier going, 'and all that the postmaster said was that perhaps it had got a—kind of deyal-ed—you know.'

'It is just possible,' and Mary Ann's voice implied a very remote contingency as she wiped hrr eyes on her apron and rose from her chair, 'It's just possible if it came on that day when father sorted the mail, because la hadn't cleaned myself after the butter-making, and that boy fom the Dingle was fussing to get their letters before I could go over them myself—and father's reading of print let alone writing, isn't to be trusted, even when he's got his glasses on—I'm not saying but what he might make a mistake, and if it will make you easier like I don't mind looking over the boxes.'

'I'm sure if you would it would be awfully kind of you,' said Tad grate-

INTERESTING NOTES OF LOCAL HAPPENINGS DURING THE PAST WEEK

Many "Old Timers" of our district are looking forward to the gathering on December 1st for our returned soldiers, when a reunion of the members of the Agricultural and many of its returned members and all returned soldiers who are scattered around in our community.

BORN: To Mr. and Mrs. F. Fahner, Thursday, November 13th a daughter.

The cattle shipments have been held back during the past week. The railroad refusing to accept shipments for Edmonton and for Winnipeg.

The stockowners down south have been busy with winter operations fully two months before time. Seems the calendar is running on fast time.

Mr G. M. Beattie entertained Sunday evening.

feed, the stockowners should have an opportunity to utilize the range by herding their cattle. Open stacks are a great obstacle and present great difficulty to those in charge of the stock, frequently shutting off the use of a section or more feeding ground. With a little co-operation between the owners of the stacks and the owners of the stock, the proposition may be made much easier for both parties.

The Chauvin Pharmacy already have on display Xmas cards, Xmas books, Xmas stationery, Xmas decorative brushes, mirrors, combs trays, manicure sets, and a hundred other odds and ends. No need to send out of town this year as you can see just what you want and know if you are going to like it before paying the money.

Grossmith Concert To A Unique Recital
The only appearance of Leslie Grossmith, famous English entertainer, is arousing enthusiasm amongst the young people of the town, who are looking forward to a genuine musical treat and unusual enjoyment. The character of Mr. Grossmith's entertainment is absolutely unique. The following press notices will describe better than anything else the wonderful versatility of the man.

"Mr. Grossmith is both accomplished and versatile. He not only is a delineator of character but a skilled musician, as well, revealing his artistry as a mimic, as a pianist, a monologist and composer. Mr. Grossmith jolly, with the result that the audience is much delighted with wholesome fun."

GLOBE; BOSTON, MASS.
"Leslie Grossmith has a clean and nimble wit, and never fails to raise a hearty laugh. He is aided by a musical gift of a high order and is an artist to be reckoned with."

NEWS; MOOSE JAW, SASK.
"As an Actor, pianist, impersonator and composer, one seldom meets the equal of Leslie Grossmith. His superiority in any one of these lines is not often heard either. 'Artistic' may be used to describe all this performer's work."

LEADER; REGINA, SASK.
Mr. Grossmith is doing a considerable educational lecture on the subject of music, which he gives in the schools churches throughout the country. At the Collegiate Institute at Regina, Prince Albert, North Battleford, and the Pro-Cathedral at Saskatoon, Mr. Grossmith's splendid effort was received with an enthusiasm seldom surpassed in Western Canada.

INSURE NOW AND FEEL SAFE

Canadian Pacific Railway Lands: Call in and see the price list: 20 years terms, one-tenth cash payment with application; no further payment of capital until the fourth year. Interest at six per cent per annum. If the necessary improvements are executed in the first year, the interest will be reduced to two per cent for two years. This is a good proposition, and these lands are being rapidly absorbed. Do not delay until too late, as these lands will be turned over again at a big profit.

Hudsons Bay Lands. I have the latest prices on all the holdings of the Hudsons Bay Company and am ready to quote you at any time. The terms are:—8 equal payments with interest at seven per cent per annum. The prices are now down to a very low figure, and these lands are sure to turn out to be a good business proposition. Values will soar again, and the H.B. Lands are mighty good buying at present quotations. That quarter alongside your own will make a fine addition to your farm; and, believe me, it is better to be in on the ground floor when you buy.

Loan Companies have all kinds of Money to Loan on Improved Farm Property, First Mortgage. I am advised by one of the most reliable firms that their great concern at the present time is to find sufficient applications to take up this surplus money. Interest at eight per cent. Five or ten year terms. No commissions charged to the Mortgagor; and the costs of obtaining same were never so low as at the present time. If you are interested, call or write; but remember that there is no shortage of cash for this purpose.

These Tours
Are Interesting
North Pacific Coast and California resorts are becoming more popular each year with residents of Western Canada who seek a haven for two or three months during the extreme weather the prairie country inherits because of its geographical situation. There are also those who have leisure to make the trip for a shorter period to indulge in the pastimes afforded or bask in the sunshine of these "sunny climes" this season.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and Steamship lines have formulated a series of tours at fares that we submit are attractive. By this route you enjoy the finest scenery of the Canadian Rockies on a 700-mile Ocean voyage through protected waters of the famous "Inside Channel",

Childrens Corner

A man rode up a hill, and yet he walked. How was this?
Yette (yet he) was the name of his dog.

The Strongest Thing

An Indian magician was walking one evening by the banks of the Ganges, when an owl flew by, carrying in its beak a little mouse.
Being frightened, it dropped the mouse, and the Magician, who was a kind-hearted man, took the little creature home, and healed it, and changed it into a very beautiful girl.
"Now, my dear," he said "I must find you a husband." "Whom would you like to marry? I am a great magician and able to perform wonderful things, and I can carry out your slightest wish."
The adopted daughter of the Magician seemed pleased: her eyes twinkled.
"I should like to marry the most powerful being in the universe," she said.
"There is nothing in the universe more powerful than the Sun," said the Magician. "I will marry him to you." So he asked the Sun to marry her.
"I am not the most powerful thing being," said the sun. "Look at the great Cloud that covers me and hides my light. He is far greater and stronger than I."
"Well, you must marry my adopted daughter," said the Magician to the Cloud.
"There's somebody stronger than I," said the Cloud. "The Wind tosses me about just as he pleases."
But the Magician found that the Wind was not as strong as the Mountain which towered, terrace upon terrace, right up into the sky, and stopped the fiercest tempest.
"And there's somebody stronger than I," said the Mountain. "Look at the Mouse, which bores holes in my side, and lives there whether I like it or not. All my strength will not drive it away."
The Magician was grieved at the result of his inquiries. He felt sure that his adopted daughter would never stoop so low as to wed a mouse. To his great surprise, however, she was delighted to hear that the Mouse was the strongest creature in the world. So the Magician shanged her back into a mouse, the shape in which he had found her and the two were very happily married.
"You can alter anyone's appearance, but that does not alter their nature."

WHEAT & HIGH COST OF LIVING

Peter Cameron, a prominent farmer and member of the Manitoba G.G.A., at Westbourne, appeared before the Board of Commerce last week and presented evidence to show that the effect of the price of wheat on the cost of living had been entirely over-rated. Mr. Cameron had gone to considerable trouble and expense to collect his evidence. He had made arrangements by which the cost of meals prepared in the home was estimated by several Winnipeg women. Detailed accounts of all food eaten, and the cost of each item were kept. In one case the average cost of 210 meals was 11 1-3 cents bread. In another the average cost of 126 meals was 15 31-43 cents, with less than 1 1/2 cents per meal for bread. Two other estimates gave around 14 cent as the average cost of meals with the cost of bread eaten correspondingly low.

Argument for Farmers

In his argument for the farmers, Mr. Cameron said it was contended that the high cost of wheat was the chief cause of the high cost of living, and that wheat regulated the price of all other foodstuffs. "We contend," he went on, "that wheat does not regulate the price of all other foodstuffs, nor has it done so during the past five years. When the government in 1917 put the price of wheat down from $3.16 a bushel to $2.21 1/2, a difference of $3 1/2 cents a bushel, did other things come down? They did not, but they kept going up right along, while the price of wheat has been fixed for three years all other foodstuffs have gone up. When the price of wheat was fixed, why did not the price of other remain at the same price when the price of wheat was fixed. If the price of wheat regulates the price of all other foodstuffs why does $3.00 in Minneapolis produce bacon 28 cents a pound less than $2.24 wheat produces bacon in Winnipeg? It appears that the Winnipeg regulator prices must be out of commission and needs adjusting. In January, 1917 I shipped a car of wheat to Minneapolis and received over $500 a car more than I could get in Winnipeg for the same grade of wheat after paying ten cents a bushel duty.

"The howl about the high cost of living has been going on all of this last summer, while beef, butter, milk and cheese were being produced on grass without grain—in fact, the greater part of beef, butter, milk and cheese produced in Manitoba is produced without grain. How does wheat affect the prices of coarse grain in the production of beef, butter, milk and cheese? In the tests that have been made in Winnipeg of the cost of food for a family bread costs about one-tenth of what the other foodstuffs for a family cost, while it supplies one-third of the food value needed for the family, showing that wheat, at the present prices, is by far the cheapest food we use, and if it is a regulator of food prices, why does it not bring the other foodstuff prices down? A working man will wear four pairs of overalls and two smocks in a year, besides the pants he wears in winter, so my men tell me. The increase in price since 1914 is $12 on four pairs of overalls and two smocks. A man can buy all the bread he needs for a year, according to the tests we have made for $11.68. I bought the suit I have on for $31 before the war I cannot get as good to-day for $85. The difference of $54 would buy all the flour for a family of five for a year.

"The average cigarette smoker smokes 25 cents worth of cigarettes in a day, which would more than keep a family of five persons in bread for a day."

Bread Still Cheap Food

"The cost of bread for a man in Winnipeg for a day would not buy half a drink of two per cent beer, nor an ice cream cone. A banker told me recently he considered growing wheat the biggest gamble in this country, and it certainly is more risky than formerly. We grew wheat for over 20 years without black rust; beginning with 1903, we have had four black rust years in 15 years. In November, 1914, wheat was $1.22 1/2. Wages on the farm have more than doubled to the farmer, but the price of wheat has not been doubled. If a banker looks on wheat as the biggest such a necessary food as it is for human beings, surely the farmer ought to have a fair price for his wheat. If the farmer has to produce at pre-war prices and pay war wages, he will soon be out of business, and what a great many seem to want is pre-war prices for what they buy and war wages when they work."

ARTLAND ARGUS

Remember the date, November 28 for the Soldier's Dance at Brady school house.

Artland is notching, if not in the fashion: and matches and coal have become Cherished Memories.

And a temperature in the playful neighbourhood of about 35 below zero, before breakfast naturally adds to the humour of the situation.

We regret to note the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Michel, who, we understand, propose taking up their permanent residence in British Columbia.

Like ships that pass in the night, nouncements such as the above, and they are frequent in this far west.

Notices were put up at this point

last week, calling for tenders on the transport of the King's mail, rural delivery from Artland Post Office.

A critical, but much esteemed correspondent writes to us as follows:—perhaps among your next week's notes you might draw attention to that agreeable function at the Brady school last Friday. The proceedings took the form of a 'miscellaneous shower' for Sergeant Frank Wright and his bride who came from England a few months ago; originally such was too have taken place at their new home, but unfortunately it could not be finished in time, so Brady school, famous all around the district for its enjoyable dances, was the "venue". The school was just comfortably filled, many being absent, probably some having been busy with the threshing operations. The beautiful gifts, both useful and ornamental, were displayed on a table at the head of the room and were much admired. Mr Jim Coe gave a few pleasant remarks thanking the ladies for their lovely presents to which both Sergt Wright and his wife suitably replied. Dancing was carried on with great spirit till the early hours, while Mr Gar. Lawson and Mr James McKague gave capital step dances. Mr McKague and his son Arthur contributed when the time came to sing 'God Save the King.'

The refreshments were ably looked after by Mrs Johannes, Mrs Richelt, Mrs Jack Graham, of the Narrows and Mrs Willie Wright.

Four cars of fine beef were shipped from here last week. Three cars from A. Newport and one car from J. Sutherland, for Winnipeg.

For the moment cars for grain and live stock are not available, all cars being pressed into a rush through with coal from the mines.

J. Vine, late of the C. E. force, who returned from Saskatoon last Friday, reports an enthusiastic gathering at a banquet of the members of the late 65th battalion—at the above place.

Recipes Using Brown Sugar

ENGLISH GINGER NUTS
1-2 Cup Shortening
1 Egg
1-4 Teaspoonful Salt
1 Cup Brown Sugar
2 Cups Pastry Flour
2 Teaspoonfuls Ground Ginged
Cream the shortening, add the brown sugar and when this is well mixed add the beaten egg. Sift the ginger and salt with the flour.. Roll into little balls between the palms of the hands. Bake in a moderate oven.
A blanched almond or a bit of citron pressed on the top of each ball before baking makes them more attractive.

PEANUT DROP CAKES
4 Tablespoons Peanut Butter
4 Tablespoons milk
1-2 Cup Brown Sugar
1 Egg
1 Cup Flour
2 teaspoonfuls Baking Powder
1-2 Teaspoonful Salt
1 Teaspoonful Lemon Juise
Combine in order given, sifting salt and baking powder with the flour, Drop from a spoon on a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven.

RBROWN SUGAR ICING
2 Cups brown Sugar
1 Egg
1-2 Cup Water,
1-2 Teaspoonful Vanilla.

Boiled icing is much more easily made with brown sugar than withwhite and has a better flavor. Boil the sugar and water until the mixture will form a fairly firm ball when tried in cold water. Have the white of the egg stiffly beaten, and pour the syrup over the egg, beating all the time, the vanilla.

Useful Hints

When making pillows make a slip of strong mosquito netting and put the feathers into this. Slip this first pillow into the ticking and fasten with clasps. The feathers can be easily removed for airing and the ticking for washing.

To remove the wild taste from prairie chicken or any wild fowl, soak in water in which a teaspoonful of soda has been added.

To wash varnished ceilings or wood work, odd a little coal oil to the water They will then retain their glossiness.

To take the place of a dustless mop tie a piece of soft cloth on the broom when sweeping floor.

A little powderel borax put into the rinse water will whiten clothes and keep prints and other things from fading.

The most important point in buying Alfalfa seed is that it is from the hardest stain of Alfalfa procurable.

When preparing irrigated land for Alfalfa, Level up the surface before the seed is planted.

The average man does not know his poor relations and his rich relations do not know him.

RIBSTONE RECORD

Who said that winter had come to stay, just see the lovely weather we are having now.

Mr. Joe Dallyn returned from Chicago last Sunday, looking well after his trip.

Mr. Alfred Williams is back in Ribstone again.

Mr. Tom Eyde spent a few days in Ribstone last week.

Mrs. P. O. Lawrence and family left for their new home in U.S.A. on Friday.

M. Ross Dallyn and Charlie Clifford left on Sunday night on an exploring trip through B.C.

Several of our Ribstone people took in the big time in Chauvin on Tuesday. The train officials must have known, there was something on as they had the train just in time for those waiting to go the concert.

Miss Laura Clifford spent a few days in Chauvin last week, visiting at the home of Mrs. Geo. Burton.

The Chauvin Chronicle must be a great paper, when you can see to read it in the dark.

Every one buy some rice and get ready to receive the happy couple who are expected back in Ribstone any day now. Let us give them a hearty welcome on their return.

What was that I heard you say, You want some pancakes and Maple syrup? Well, then, come to Ribstone on the 5th of December and get a good feed of pancakes and maple syrup. A lunch will be served for those who do not care for pancakes from 5 p.m. till 8 o'clock. A good program will follow. All for the small fee of 50c. for adults and 25c. for children. The money will be devoted to a good cause. Don't forget to come and have a good time.

refreshment booth, or a dancing hall, being thirty feet in diameter

Briefly reviewed in this manner, it is apparent that the small and faith-ful band are steady and consistent workers. They are well worth an hearty cheery vote of thanks.

Its Aims Are Your Aims

To conclude the aim and object of this society is the very thing you are finding essential in your success in farming. Therefore the society needs you, and you need the Society.

No, ther's no need of crepe for the society! The only crepe needed is for a species of mankind, fortunately unknown in this district—Don't tell me, I know it all—species

But is that all?

Has the work of this organization already been completed?

Beginning Of A New Era

The Chauvin Agricultural Society has done a fine work, has still more to do; and will do it in a splendid manner to but for one thing—It needs you to join and do 'your bit.'

Just as surely as the end of the day is the beginning of the next, so the end of this period of the history of the Chauvin Agricultural Society the beginning of another and better day.

This is not the place where we all get off! No, this is the place where we all get on and go forward.

The Society is getting into it's stride and every farmer is wanted to come and help anl let the Society help him in the helping. We said, farmers, ex-cuse us, we should have said farmers' wives and families also.

Is A Tectnical Guild

The Agricultural Society is the guild or trade society of the local farmers who seek to study their busi-ness. The farmer and his craft suffer mutually when it is neglected. It is essentially the farmers' society, run by farmers, and in all its work tends to improve and develop the science and practise of farming. It is so organized and operated that it gives to the community infinitely more than it takes. Not alone does it provide a larger amount of prize money than it takes from the exhibitor, but it—as we have already said—gives it's members new ideas and correct false ones..

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

The Only Organization Of Its Kind

It is a good thing to belong to the U. F. A. or it's sister organization, this provides in a splendid manner for the political, economic and social aspects of the farmers interests. But to the Agricultural Society falls the duty ofupbuilding and improving his know-ledge tnd practise of the technical side of this work.

fully, 'and I don't mind waiting while you finish the butter and can have a good look.'

The butter finished, Mary Ann re-tired to her room—to wash her hands she said, and after a delay of a few minutes reappeared.

'Here's a picture book as you can be a-looking at while I go oevr the boxes,' she said, handing Tad a copy of the 'Graphic'. 'It's for Miss Raye sure she would not mind your open-ing it, and you can take it along to

This, perhaps, hardly matched with her claim to exactness in following o¼ce regulations, but it was not de-sirable that Tad should follow her too closely in her search for the miss-ing letter, and Tad was entirely un-suspicious. He had done little more than sslip it out of its cover and etraighten out the stiff leaves to look the better at the pictures when Mary Ann gave a startled cry—when not too flustered Mary Ann had consid-erable talent—rather warped and de-veloped along wrong lnes.

'Sure to mercy! and if here is not ad quickly round from the office desk, 'from Africa and all, and with the letters T.M.D. in the corner,, just as I often mind seeing on Mr. Tom's letters to his Ma—now, isn't that real wonderful?' and she looked Tad steadily in the eye.

Tad was almost too pleased to speak 'Why that's great, Miss Dawson. I'm jolly glad I came, I'll take it ight along to Miss Raye—she won't be glad—oh, not at all!

father made such a slip—be sure I'll never leave him to sort the mail again—and you'll be certain and let Miss Raye know how it happened—to think as it's being lying here among some old bills of father's as had nothing to do with the office at all—and the opor dear never to know.'

'Oh, yes, I'll tell her exactly' prom-ised Tad eagerly and in all good faith as he took the letter, 'and I'll tell the postmaster in town that hse's got it all right— and she'll be so pleas-ed with the good news I've got that I'm sure she won't blame you at all, and besides, it wasn't your fault, was it, Miss Dawson?'

'Well, I hope she'll forgive me—us all, I mean, and give her my love and tell her as there's never a one as hopes she will be happy more true than Mary Ann Dawson—now, maybe you'd best be going or school will be out—good-bye.'

It had been a Waterloo for all Mary Ann's plans, but thanks to the open frankness of Tad's disposition, she felt she had made a good retreat from a sudden weakness in her knees that if hẽ did go soon, that his evident trust in her good faith would bring than that which had the first proved so alaming and disconcerting to poor Tad's 'lay-out'.
